

Professor Makrigiannakis was elected Assistant Professor in Obstetrics and Gynecology in the Medical School of the University of Crete (2001) and Full Professor in the same School (2010). He is the Head of the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology of the Medical School of the University of Crete and the founder and Head of the Division of Reproductive Medicine including the IVF unit (1000 cycles yearly) and there current miscarriages clinic.

He is also the founder and Head of the University Laboratory of Human Reproduction continuing is research on the role of CRH on implantation mechanisms, repeated implantation failure sand gynaecological cancer. Six PhD theses have been completed so far while 4 are currently ongoing in this laboratory.